

Toni Moyes is a technology leader whose work focuses on scaling New Zealand companies internationally. She is the Chief Operating Officer of Montoux, an insurtech that uses actuarial and data science to help optimize the life insurance industry. Ms. Moyes is also a Future Director on the Board of Fisher & Paykel Healthcare (a global leader in technologies for respiratory care), Co-Founder of Leading Ladies (a peer mentoring network for emerging leaders) and a member of the selection team for the Edmund Hilary Fellowship (a global network of change makers administering the world's first Global Impact Visa). She has previously participated in APEC

as a Treasury official in the Economic Committee and Finance Ministers' Process as well as a number of other international trade and environmental forums. She has practiced as a corporate and commercial lawyer at Russell McVeagh and graduated from New York University School of Law.